

OpenMed Technologies Corp. to be Featured on Alexander Haig's Health Journal Television Series, July 23, 2006 on CNBC (As Paid Programming)

July 20, 2006 09:32 AM Eastern Daylight Time

BOCA RATON, Fla.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--July 20, 2006--Multi-Media Productions (USA), Inc. announces that OpenMed Technologies Corp. will be featured on Health Journal Television, hosted by General Alexander Haig.

In a typical hospital, multiple electronic records must be accessed to make treatment decisions. This can be extremely time consuming. On this episode of Health Journal Television, Albert Kelley, President and CEO of OpenMed Technologies Corp. will discuss how enterprise image management systems can improve patient care -- and lower costs.

"OpenMed Technologies Corp. is at the forefront of their industry. Their innovative solutions made them a natural to appear on the show."

Albert Kelley, President & CEO of OpenMed Technologies states, "The secret's out. Using OpenMed, community hospitals can now afford to have superior digital imaging systems that include PACS. OpenMed has earned the reputation of providing the best technical support in the business. Customers tell us we are not the typical 'dump and run' PACS vendor focused on the bottom line. Our customers are our best sales people and we take pride in being their partner in providing patient care."

Coordinating Producer Richard Linderman added, "OpenMed Technologies Corp. is at the forefront of their industry. Their innovative solutions made them a natural to appear on the show."
